

Black Friday for America's Underworld

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gangster Joseph Valachi testified today he was a killer in the New York job of Vito Genovese, but wound up getting the "kiss of death"—a sentence to be murdered—from Genovese himself in a federal prison.

A grandfatherly looking man of 60, save for iron-gray hair dyed a glowing reddish brown, Valachi showed little emotion as he told his story at the Senate Investigations subcommittee's new probe of organized crime.

He testified he killed a fellow convict in 1962 in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., whom he mistakenly believed was a Genovese assassin about to kill him, but the subcommittee left for later a recital of details about any other killings.

Valachi testified he got no help from Genovese's mob—which he said was a unit of the nationwide crime syndicate, La Cosa Nostra—when he had trouble with the law over a long criminal career, but did get help in his "business" activities.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., asked what Valachi did in return for this business help.

"I just go out and kill for them," Valachi answered.

Javits asked whether this was a way to describe mutual protection in which Valachi would "kill off or otherwise handle people who were bothering him (Genovese)." Valachi testified that after he

Search Continues for Aged Woman

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The search for an 82-year-old woman, Miss Nell McKelvey, who disappeared from a Little Rock nursing home last Monday has been intensified.

An Arkansas National Guard helicopter was used in the hunt for Miss McKelvey Thursday and members of the Pulaski County Sheriff's Mounted Patrol combed the rocky, brushy terrain around the home.

Miss McKelvey walked away from the home on noon Monday. Officials said she was believed to be wearing a tan dress with pink flowers on it and a tan straw hat with a red band.

Advise a Change in Constitution

IMBODEN, Ark. (AP)—Rep. Virgil Butler of Independence County told an Imboden civic club Thursday that a constitutional convention would solve the "over-increasing entanglements of governmental affairs in Arkansas."

It would, "by-pass entrenched politicians and draft blue ribbon citizens from every county," Butler said.

Butler said the legislative amendment procedure would be cheaper, but it has proved a miserable flop in the past.

"The people in their wisdom have recognized fully that the General Assembly does not often seek realistic, unsullied reform," Butler said. He added that consequently they seldom approve amendments.

"The fixers and manipulators seldom provide opportunity for the people to vote on amendments that offer anything except a colored coating of this veneer," he said.

Not only has the state legislature passed 35 amendments in the last 10 years, but it would take 90 years to pass the necessary amendments for reforms needed today.

British Car Holdup Nets $252,000

LONDON (AP)—A gang of eight men ambushed an armored truck today and got away with 90,000 pounds ($252,000) in bank notes.

The holdup occurred on a road near Swanley in Kent. The armored truck was making a routine transfer of cash from one branch of Martin's Bank—one of Britain's biggest financial institutions—to another.

The robbers rammed it with another truck and a car, black-jacked six guards into submission and fled with the loot in another truck. A farmer who saw the raid said it was all over in less than a minute.

It was the first time the British underworld had ventured on a major robbery since a gang of 15 waylaid a Glasgow-London mail train near Cheddington on Aug. 8 and made off with 2.6 million pounds ($7.28 million) in bank notes.

So far 13 men and women have been arrested and accused of complicity in the mail robbery. Only 10 per cent of the loot has been recovered.

If You Ever Worked as a Baby-Sitter You Are Tired of Hearing These Remarks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that baby-sitters get tired of hearing:

"It's such a bad night out that my husband and I decided we'd stay home, so we won't need you after all. I'm sorry you had to come so far in such a pour rain. Here's 50 cents for your trouble."

"You mean these high school girls have the nerve to charge 75 cents an hour for doing practically nothing? Why, I was three years out of college before I made that kind of money."

"This is our little son, Junior. You don't have to worry about him biting. It's his little sister, Cissie, who bites. Junior just tries to stamp on your foot when you're not looking."

"I'm dreadfully sorry, but our television set broke down this afternoon and I haven't had time to get it fixed. I'm afraid you'll have to read the little dears to sleep."

"We're running low on clean diapers. If you have to wash a few, you can fast-dry them by hanging them in front of the kitchen stove."

"If you get hungry, be sure

Byrd Controls 'Go Slow' Plan on Tax Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., appeared firmly in control of the Senate Finance Committee today and thus able to enforce his go-slow policy on President Kennedy's tax cut bill.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a committee member, said he was confident that Byrd could count on at least nine votes, a bare majority, to block any moves to speed up consideration of the measure.

It was learned that administration supporters had talked to Republican members about such moves. But a Republican senator told a reporter no support for them would be forthcoming from his side.

"This made it likely that in any showdown the Virginian would have the backing of Gore, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and the six Republicans."

Most, if not all of the other eight Democrats are expected to support the administration's view that the Senate can and should act on the bill this year.

The $11-billion tax cut bill, biggest in the nation's history, passed the House Wednesday.

The measure would mean reductions starting next Jan. 1 for nearly every individual and corporate income taxpayer.

For individuals, the cuts when the bill is fully effective would range from $106 a year for a four-person family with $5,000 annual income to $5,278 for the $100,000-income family.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has been buttonholing all Finance Committee members, urging an immediate start of public hearings on the legislation.

But Byrd announced that the committee would begin next Thursday and in closed session, with briefings by congressional staff experts running for a week or 10 days.

He has not yet scheduled a time for Dillon's opening appearance or for other public witnesses, but some committee members say

Lions Light Bulb Sale on Monday

Monday, September 30th, the Hope Lions Club will again offer light bulbs for sale, at homes in the Hope area. Each bag will contain six bulbs ranging from 150 to 60 Watts and will sell for $2.00 or just about the same as regular retail price.

The bulbs are made in Arkansas and the proceeds are designated for local sight conservation cases and the southwest rehabilitation center for the blind in Little Rock.

The average annual expenditure for local sight services is $328.50 and from $500. to $1,000.00 is pledged to the blind center each year by the Hope Club. This work is carried on by the sale of bulbs in the fall, brooms each spring and private pledges by local Lions.

The sale will start at 5:00 p.m. and continue until about 9:30. Look for a Lion at your door Monday night.

Going After Those Who Didn't Vote

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Republican Party took aim Thursday on winning the average of 197 voters per precinct who didn't vote in the 1960 general election.

Ray Humphreys of Washington, director of training and education for the Republican National Committee, told 23 state Republican leaders Thursday that the average Arkansas precinct recorded a total vote of 121 in the 1960 election.

Humphreys said there was an average of 197 voters who did not cast ballots in the 1960 election and the GOP could make a significant gain by getting those 197 to vote Republican.

William L. Spicer of Fort Smith, state GOP chairman said party politics were not discussed at the closed meeting. He said similar seminars will be held in each of the state's four congressional districts.

Storm Hits Puerto Rico, Dominican

By HORST BUCHHOLZ

SAN JUAN, P. R. (AP)—Erratic hurricane Edith weakened somewhat early today as it roared up between the western end of Puerto Rico and the neighboring Dominican Republic. It still packed a dangerous punch of winds, rain and stormy seas.

Winds of 100 miles an hour at the hurricane's core slackened to 75 miles, while storm tides as high as eight feet above normal dropped to four to six feet above normal.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at San Juan continued to maintain a hurricane warning for the Dominican Republic east of San Pedro de Macoris, including the Peninsula de Samana, although it added that some further weakening in the storm could be expected as it crossed the eastern tip of the Dominican Republic.

Gale warnings remained in effect for the west of Puerto Rico, where heavy rains were reported. The Weather Bureau urged residents near rivers to be prepared to move to higher ground. Low coastal areas were evacuated Thursday night.

The bureau warned of possible floods, especially along the southern slopes of the lush central Cordillera Mountain region in Puerto Rico, where tobacco, fruit and sugar cane are grown.

Edith baffled the Weather Bureau by its disorganized behavior Thursday. It settled on a course through the 50-mile wide Mona Passage between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic, an old hurricane route.

The storm destroyed about half of the 6 million banana crop on the British West Indian island of St. Lucia.

Edith's heaviest blows were inflicted Wednesday on the French island of Martinique. Reports to Paris said tens of thousands of persons were left homeless and 75 per cent of the island's buildings were damaged.

Mexico was battered by two storms of near-hurricane strength. One headed in from the Pacific toward Lower California, while the other howled in from the Gulf of Mexico.

Five days of torrential rain left 40,000 persons homeless in the southeastern state of Tabasco. At least seven towns were flooded.

Newspaper reports said 25 persons were dead or missing.

Counterfeiters Plead Guilty

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Buford Edward Glover, 40, and Jerry Edward Gardner, 24, both of North Little Rock, pleaded guilty Thursday in U.S. District Court to charges of making and possessing a counterfeit $10 bill.

Judge J. Smith Henley delayed sentencing Gardner. Glover was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for three years.

Their cases grew out of what the U.S. Secret Service called a counterfeiting operation which was centered at Little Rock. The service estimated $60,000 to $70,000 in money bills were printed but said only about $1,000 of it got into circulation.

Three other defendants had appeared in court earlier. Jerry Dean Wyatt, 24, of Little Rock, pleaded guilty Aug. 29 and was placed on probation for three years. Raymond Benjamin Hedge, 34, of Little Rock, pleaded innocent Wednesday. No date has been set for Hedge's trial.

Everett Rhoden, 24, of North Little Rock, pleaded guilty to a charge of having knowledge of a counterfeiting operation and failing to report it to authorities. He was placed on probation for one year.

Ministers Agreement Not Likely

By LEWIS GULICK

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—West Germany's foreign minister joins those of the United States and Britain in preparatory talks today amid a growing feeling among Western diplomats that no wide agreement will ensue from the forthcoming encounter with the Soviet Union's Andrei A. Gromyko.

In advance of his meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Lord Home of Britain, Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany was reported agreeable to Saturday's Rusk-Home exploration with Gromyko provided prospects for German reunification are not hurt.

Rusk and Home met Thursday and were said to believe that while some secondary accords may be possible soon—such as a step-up in U.S.-Soviet communications and trade—movement will be slow on political issues.

It was stated that both the Communists and the West have problems of their own which hinder their flexibility on East-West issues. The Soviets are in a feud with the Red Chinese. The Western Allies have trouble agreeing on more than a standstill policy on Berlin.

Gromyko is expected to call for a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact nations and an exchange of observers to protect against surprise attack.

Rusk and Home agreed that any nonaggression pact should include guarantees of the freedom of West Berlin. They also noted the Allies are far from unanimity of such a pact, diplomatic sources said.

One item which held their attention above others was the U.S. proposal for a fleet of Polaris missile surface ships to be operated and paid for by interested NATO members.

Informants said Home told Rusk Britain would be willing to join the planning session on the Polaris fleet next month—to be attended by the United States, West Germany, Italy, Greece and Turkey—provided this did not commit Britain to the program and alternative plans could be discussed.

Rusk replied that attendance at the talks did not mean formal commitment.

Heart Attack Fatal

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Hubert J. Prichard, 49, personal friend, physician and political aide to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, died Thursday of a heart attack.

Prichard was chief radiologist at Memorial Hospital in Long Beach.

Matson Is Named by L.R. Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Russell Matson was elected president of the Little Rock school board Thursday night, replacing Everett Tucker who led Little Rock's drive for peaceful school integration.

Tucker apparently stepped down by pre-arrangement. Matson, his close friend and also a racial moderate, was the only one nominated to succeed him.

Matson, Tucker and Ted Lamb turned the tide of the Little Rock integration crisis away from turmoil in 1959 when they won a bitterly-fought school election battle with segregationists.

They directed the opening of the high schools, which had been closed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Tucker gained national prominence for his leadership. He also is head of the Little Rock Industrial Development Corp., which has a long-range plan of making Arkansas' capital city a southern industrial center.

Tucker has been board president since June 1959—right after the election in which moderates and segregationists were put up for recall by the voters. The segregationists were recalled.

Matson has been vice president of the board since then.

This year 123 Negroes are attending once-white Little Rock schools. Elementary schools were desegregated for the first time this fall.

Judge Orle O. Byers continue the Perrytown hearing until Wednesday, Oct. 2 at 9 a.m.

Arthur J. Forbes of Berkeley, Calif. has been appointed professional service representative for Pfizer Laboratories, division of Chas. Pfizer & Co. 114-year-old pharmaceutical and chemical manufacturer.

In his new position, Mr. Forbes will bring information on the company's new products and research discoveries to physicians, pharmacists and other professional medical group in the Oakland, Calif. area.

Mr. Forbes received his B. A.

City Commission Must Pick Chief

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The state Attorney General's office ruled Thursday that the Fort Smith City Commission and not its Civil Service Commission should select a new fire chief.

The opinion went to City Commissioner Lloyd McDonald. Hubert Neff, a member of the Fort Smith fire department for 20 years, is the only man certified by the Civil Service Commission for fire chief to succeed R. L. Rudd, who resigned effective Aug. 21.

McNamara Inspection Continues

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara toured Viet Nam's central highlands today after receiving reassuring reports that the Buddhist campaign against President Ngo Dinh Diem had not hindered the war against the Communists in the northern part of the country.

Both U.S. and Vietnamese officers in the field told McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the Buddhist crisis had diminished neither the scale of military operations in the north nor the morale of Vietnamese troops.

Arthur Sylvester, Assistant Secretary of defense, said the reports indicated the impact of the Buddhist campaign was "markedly different in the countryside from that in the cities."

Sylvester painted a generally favorable picture of the U.S.-Vietnamese military effort in the north and added there was ground for "low-key optimism."

"We appear to be moving forward," Sylvester said. "Our operations are not completely successful, but they're improving and are expected to improve more."

As evidence of continued cooperation from villagers in spite of the Buddhist crisis, Sylvester said the peasantry was, showing a greater willingness to report guerrilla movements and that there were fewer Viet Cong attacks and more government patrols.

As President Kennedy's chief military advisers toured the country, the people of South Viet Nam went to the polls to elect a new 123-member National Assembly.

Results of the election were expected to have no influence on the authoritarian policies of President Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu, the president's chief adviser.

The assembly has had virtually rubber-stamp status since Diem started ruling by decree in 1961.

"The concept of a loyal opposition is alien to the form of government here," one top American diplomat commented.

"We tend to make light of these elections," another American observer said. "But they are democracy of a rudimentary sort. This is better than nothing."

Nhu put himself forward as a candidate for the first time, running as an "independent." It is expected that he will be named president of the assembly. His reasons for seeking elective office were not known.

Nhu's politically powerful wife, who acts as First Lady for the bachelor resident, was an "independent" candidate for re-election to the assembly. Both she and her husband were unopposed.

Another Beauty Queen Crowned

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The last step in the chain reaction begun when Donna Axum of El Dorado became Miss America today when Donna Axum of El Dorado became Miss America Sept. 7 will take place Saturday with the crowning of a new Miss North Little Rock.

The newest beauty queen is Charlotte Ann Eckel, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Eckel.

The 20-year-old junior at the UNIVERSITY OF Arkansas and Pamela Jane Jackson of North Little Rock, who was named Miss Arkansas after Miss Axum became Miss America.

Miss Eckel was runner-up to Miss Jackson last year in the Miss North Little Rock contest.

Highlights in Today's History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 27, the 270th day of 1963. There are 95 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1854, the steamship Arctic, bound from Liverpool to New York, sank 1,000 miles off the coast of Ireland with the loss of 300 lives.

On this date In 1777, the Fifth Continental Congress met at Lancaster, Pa., following capture of Philadelphia by the British the previous day. In 1894, President Grover Cleveland proclaimed amnesty to all persons convicted of polygamy under the Edmunds Act.

In 1946, King George II of Greece returned to Athens from wartime exile in England. In 1950, Ezzard Charles won undisputed recognition as world heavyweight boxing champion by winning a decision over former titleholder Joe Louis who had attempted a comeback.

Ten years ago . . . Typhoons were estimated to have caused 1,000 deaths in central Viet Nam and 276 in southern and central Japan.

Five years ago . . . President Eisenhower named Maj. Gen. Wilton Persons to be assistant to the President, succeeding Sherman Adams who resigned under fire. One year ago . . . Treaty Is Improvement of Relations

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, now that the Senate has approved the limited nuclear test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union, is like a man who just made a down-payment on a new business although he hasn't figured out what kind.

The treaty is an improvement in the relationship between the two countries and could lead to better things—President Kennedy spoke of it as a first step—but nobody is sure, or could be, what comes next, if anything.

The Soviet Union's Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, at the United Nations last week proposed, among other things, another disarmament conference. But disarmament conferences are not new with either side.

Since the Russians won't agree to an inspection system to prevent cheating on disarmament, and the United States won't agree to disarmament without inspection, it was no wonder Gromyko's idea caused no gasps.

When Kennedy followed Gromyko at the United Nations with the suggestion that the United States and the Soviet Union get together to send a joint expedition to the moon, this wasn't new, either. It explains why the Russians didn't get excited.

It wasn't the first time Kennedy had mentioned it to them.

A White House spokesman said the President had proposed the joint moon trip to Premier Khrushchev at Vienna in 1961. Khrushchev didn't buy it. And, oddly enough, only two months ago Kennedy told a news conference it was impractical.

Gromyko, while he was at it, offered another idea which was also not new with the Russians: a nonaggression agreement with NATO Allies and the Warsaw Pact allies in Eastern Europe. The West had never grabbed at that one.

That's no wonder, either. It could have the effect, if the Allies bought it, of Allied agreement to the permanent division of Germany and Europe: a line down the middle with East Germany in the Communist camp. West Germany on the Western side.

The Western Allies are committed to agreeing to no such thing.

The Russians had already created their symbol of this division with the wall they built to split West and East Berlin. But it has remained, and probably was so intended, more than just a symbol of a divided city.

Marlow's World today — GAL 2

Since the Allies are unwilling to risk war by tearing the wall down, it is a symbol to their own bafflement in dealing with the Soviets.

There has been talk, also not new, about the two sides agreeing to setting up observation posts in each other's territory to be alert against military buildups or surprise attacks.

This idea alone, if the two sides ever seriously considered it, would probably require almost fortuitously dragged-out negotiations. Even if they did agree, the final arrangements probably wouldn't mean much.

In a nuclear age it's hard to think of either side starting a war, which would almost certainly become a nuclear war, the way war started in 1914, with foot soldiers, or, in 1939, with tanks and ordinary bombers.

Along any of the avenues mentioned above, down which the two sides might be able to walk hand-in-hand, there could be some give and take but at this time there is no reason to think so.

A more likely road to better relations may be in the field of trade. Last week the Russians were reported anxious to buy American wheat, although they had just bought over $600 million worth of wheat from Canada.

A number of American businessmen have called on the government to take another look at its restrictions on trade with the Communist nations. There's a ban on selling them materials which might help them economically.

It has taken the two sides 18 years since the war to get this far: an agreement not to test nuclear weapons anywhere except underground. It is reasonable to assume it will be quite a while before they reach the next meaningful step.

tion released from dictatorship by the May 30, 1961, assassination of Rafael Trujillo.

The military leaders, headed by Armed Forces Minister Elbio Vinas Roman, said they ousted Bosch primarily because he codded Communists. He had rejected a military demand in July that he crack down on leftists.

There also was widespread dissatisfaction with a recent law confiscating properties of all Dominicans who prospered under the 31-year Trujillo dictatorship. The law affected practically every Dominican who had money in a bank.

Anti-Reds Hold Power in Dominican

ist, anti-Communist military chiefs held power in the Dominican Republic today after deposing President Juan Bosch and accusing him of leading his country toward communism, economic ruin and war with neighboring Haiti.

Bosch, 54, a liberal intellectual, was expected to be sent into exile in Puerto Rico. But he apparently still was a prisoner.

Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Munoz Marin, a close friend, had expected Bosch in San Juan Wednesday night. An aide to the governor said he had learned Bosch had been taken to San Ysidro air base 9 miles from Santo Domingo. Bosch's wife and young son and daughter already were in San Juan, visiting Munoz Marin's family.

The Dominican military command said Bosch was "surrounded by all kinds of guarantees and considerations."

The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Santo

Domingo and a $50-million aid program. The State Department said, "Any overthrow of a democratically elected government is a loss to the policies of the countries of this hemisphere, including our own."

He told a news conference: "Some of the newly rich businessmen, who were happy at making a profit under the Trujillo dictatorship, have been fighting the democratic government from the start."

The leaders of the bloodless coup summoned Bosch's political opponents to pick a "respectable man" to lead the nation of 3 million out of what they said was a chaotic state "brought about by administrative indecision."

Bosch was seized in his palace before dawn Wednesday. The bloodless coup ended his seven-month rule as the Dominican Republic's first freely elected president in more than 30 years.

Even Bosch's friends, some of whom called him a dreamer, had wondered whether the post-novelist had the practical ability, after years in exile, to lead a na-

Today's News in Washington

Today in Washington
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

LAST DAY: Senate action to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission has been put off until Monday—the day it technically goes out of business.

However, the commission has an additional 60 days to wind up its affairs and the Senate can act to renew its life then.

HIGHER PAY: The House is expected today to give swift approval to a pay raise starting next month for practically all members of the armed services with over two years of service. The measure, approved 79-0 by the Senate Thursday, would provide the military forces with their first pay boost since 1958 and would cost $1.2 billion a year.

NO MIRRORS: Rep. William G. Bray, R-Ind., believes the child research bureau of the National Institutes of Health has gone too far playing peek-a-boo.

He told the House Thursday that a $5.4-billion appropriations bill it was about to pass included funds for having researchers observe newlyweds through one-way mirrors.

"I have serious doubts as to the great value of having Dr. Peek-a-book observing the newlyweds in their home," he said.

GLENN: The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the astronauts for the first manned flight of a Gemini spacecraft will not be selected until shortly before the trip, now planned for late next year. CBS News reported Thursday that Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. had been chosen as one member of the two-man flight team.

Price of Gold Takes a Dip

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold on the free British bullion exchange dropped more than half a cent an ounce today in the wake of reports that the Soviet Union is selling off supplies of the metal to raise hard cash for badly needed imports of wheat.

Normally, gold price movements on the free exchange are measured in eighths or quarters of a cent.

But the price this morning was marked down from $35.0725 an ounce to $35.0658, a fall of 67 of a cent. The price fell 1.5 cents Thursday over-all. The price on the British exchange has now declined 4 cents an ounce since the end of August.

The world official price of gold—that is, what the United States is prepared to pay for it—is $35 an ounce.

DOROTHY DIX

READER GIVES A PIECE OF HER MIND
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: To say I was shocked and amazed would be an understatement when I read in your column that strip-teasing was something to be proud of.

Then in a subsequent column you reminded one who signed himself "Man" that "Mary Magdalene walked with Jesus to the Cross."

Mrs. Erskine, she was fully clothed and "not" wearing a G-string. And why did she walk with Jesus? The way I understand it is that she had committed adultery and was about to be stoned when Jesus forgave her saying, "Go and sin no more."

I say strip-teasing is not only immoral to the stripper but to those men who watch her so greedily, shouting wildly with each garment she discards. What is the purpose of her discarding her clothing piece by piece? To arouse the passion of men.

Isn't one of our Ten Commandments, "Thou Shalt Not Commit Adultery"? Or is that just the evil minds of old fogies like me and; thank God, millions of others? To expose one's nakedness in such a manner is sinful but to do the bumps and grinds along with it would be not only displeasing to God but enough to make Cleopatra blush.

Somewhat I felt terribly let down in reading such tripe in your column. I'm a little curious, what others think of your flat unreserved statement that stripping is moral and that those who think otherwise have evil minds.

I'm not discontinuing this newspaper nor do I expect you to buy a monkey and an organ but as for me, I've had it. I've read for years to a group of highly educated, Christian women who are visually handicapped and who insisted upon having your column read to them. Now I'm spared that chore. Right is right but nobody does it and nothing is wrong if everybody does it. Incidentally, I'm proud to be an Arkansan and prouder still to be an Arkansan.

Dear L. G. Phillips: What a dull, uninteresting life this would be if we only read or listened

Asserts Churches Lag on Rights

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Rev. Edward J. Odum of New York, church secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Thursday night that churches are not living up to their moral obligations in the civil rights crisis.

Odum told an audience at a Negro community center in Little Rock that Birmingham, Ala., is a good example of this failure.

"Moral forces of the community were silent too long," he said. White ministers should do more from the pulpit and church-sponsored schools should lead the way in the integration effort, Odum said.

Leaders of both races—especially church leaders—should point out the "moral inadequacy" of token desegregation, Odum said. And token desegregation he said, is what Little Rock and most other places in the South have.

Personal Inspection

OSLO, Norway (AP)—South Africa has invited the foreign ministers of the five Nordic countries to make a personal inspection of the racial situation in its territories.

The Norwegian Foreign Ministry said diplomats of the five nations have been discussing the invitation at the United Nations. It was received several weeks ago. The ministry said a decision would be made soon.

states whose principles we dislike," to withhold aid from countries "whose governments are run differently from our own" and to resume atmospheric nuclear testing.

Kennedy summed up his response to those who would abandon the United Nations; end foreign aid; resume atmospheric nuclear tests, and cut diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union by saying:

"In world affairs as in all other aspects of life, the days of the quiet past are gone forever."

And with the help of present policies, he contended, "the Communist offensive has been thwarted and turned back in recent months."

This was the most important speech Kennedy has made during his 10,000-mile Western tour. And he delivered it in a state—and in a Rocky Mountain region—where conservative sentiment has seemed on the rise.

The President's schedule today was another heavy one, starting with a Salt Lake City airport talk dedicating the $66-million Flaming Gorge Dam miles away near the Wyoming border.

Kennedy, in remarks prepared for the ceremony, said this project on the Colorado River "stands in the finest traditions of federal-state cooperation, and public-private coordination." He noted that federal, public and private power systems would share the fruits.

At the Mormon Tabernacle, the enthusiastic audience twice applauded Kennedy's defense of the nuclear test-ban treaty as "only chance to end the radiation and the possibilities of burning."

The President said the treaty "is important as a first step, perhaps to be disappointed, perhaps to find ourselves ultimately set back"—but a step, nevertheless, toward avoidance of nuclear disaster.

Kennedy said the nation has experienced a real wrench in turning from isolationism to internationalism since 1941.

"I see it in the letters that come to my desk every day," he said, declaring that involvement abroad represents a strain evident "all over the country."

Summarizing what he termed current confusions, Kennedy said: "We find ourselves entangled with apparently unanswerable problems in unpronounceable places. We discover that our enemy in one decade is our ally in the next. We find ourselves committed to governments whose actions we cannot often approve, assisting societies with principles very different from our own."

In this situation, he said, it is little wonder that "we look back to the good old days with nostalgia" and lament the fact that "our policy seems to have lost the black-and-white clarity of simpler times when we remembered the Maine and went to war."

This, of course, was a reference to the time of the McKinley administration and the Spanish-American War of 1898.

Declaring that such a time is gone forever, Kennedy said it would be folly to heed those who "counsel retreat" to isolationism.

Arts Director Is Dismissed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Arts Center and Theater has dismissed its first director, Joseph N. Carner, over what an official termed a "difference in philosophies of theater programming."

A successor was not named. Carner joined the staff a year ago. His future plans were not announced.

Gamble Apparently Wants a Divorce

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)
Typewriter heiress Gamble Benedicte Porumbeanu failed to appear today at a scheduled reconciliation hearing in her divorce suit against her husband, Andrei Porumbeanu.

Gamble's attorney submitted a medical certificate saying the heiress was suffering from nervous exhaustion and unable to be present.

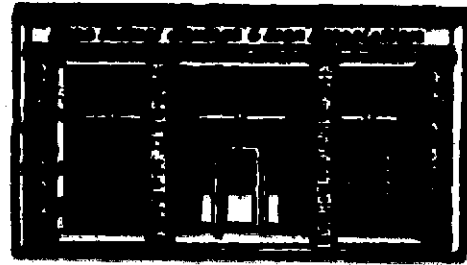

Porumbeanu appeared in court this morning and chatted briefly with the judge. No date was set for a new hearing.

Faubus has declined appointment. Faubus said it was all right with him if the state had an exhibit at the fair, but he was not going to be responsible for raising funds for it.

'Munich' Becomes a Bad Symbol

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — It was the day "Munich" came to have a new meaning and the umbrella became a bitter symbol.

It was the day, 25 years ago when Adolf Hitler and the premiers of France and England signed the Munich agreement sealing the fate of Czechoslovakia.

"Munich" came to mean appeasement. Political critics today still speak of "another Munich" to condemn real or imagined failure to stand fast in the cold war that followed Hitler's downfall.

It all stems from a crisis that had the world on the brink of war in September 1938.

A week before the Munich meeting Hitler brought the crisis to a climax in a meeting with Chamberlain at the Dreesen Hotel at Bad Godesberg.

There Hitler declared he could no longer wait for a popular vote in the German-speaking border areas of Czechoslovakia—the Sudetenland he coveted. At Berchtesgaden only a week before he had agreed to the voting. Now he insisted on marching in and occupying the area's fortifications by Oct. 1.

Neville Chamberlain was shocked—he didn't say so.

The Munich agreement, virtually as Hitler wanted it, was signed between 2 and 3 a.m. Sept. 30, 1938, at the Fuehrerbau, the building where Hitler had his Munich office.

The structure still stands, and that section where the conference took place is occupied by the Munich Conservatory of Music.

At Bad Godesberg you can still have Hitler's room—106. One of the Dreesen family will explain that the bed is now in a different spot, but the black-and-green tiled bathroom is the same and so is the wonderful view of the Rhine and the wooded hills beyond.

Chamberlain made his first trip to Germany after the French urged him to make the best deal he could on Czechoslovakia, which they were bound by treaty to defend. Hitler had him go all the way to Berchtesgaden at the extreme southeast tip of Germany, then an all-day trip from London by air and rail. It was the first time that Chamberlain, 69, had been in a plane.

The talks were held in Hitler's favorite residence, the Berghof, on a mountain overlooking Berchtesgaden. (Badly damaged in the war, it has been rebuilt as a restaurant.) Hitler took Chamberlain into his study, the same room where seven months before he had browbeaten Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg into surrendering Austrian independence.

Chamberlain agreed that Hitler could have the Sudetenland "on the basis of self-determination"—that is, the local population would decide by a vote. There was resistance but the Czechs had to give in.

Then, at Bad Godesberg, Hitler reneged. War looked almost certain despite all the British and French could do. They urged Hitler's fellow dictator—Benito Mussolini of Italy—to mediate. But the two dictators agreed that they must one day fight the West side by side.

They met Chamberlain and Edouard Daladier, the French premier, in Munich, Sept. 23. Czechoslovakia was not invited, nor was the Soviet Union, which insisted on its readiness to fight for the Czechs if the French would.

Mussolini presented a compromise drafted for him in Berlin. The German occupation of the Sudetenland was set for completion Oct. 10 instead of Oct. 1. Everyone promised a vote later and guarantees for the rest of Czechoslovakia—promises that were never carried out.

It took 13 hours to arrange the details.

After a few hours' sleep, Chamberlain brought Hitler a pledge that the agreement before was "symbolic of the desire of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again." Hitler was quick to sign.

"I believe it is peace in our time," Chamberlain told a jubilant crowd when he returned to London.

Less than six months later Hitler took over the rest of Czechoslovakia, and six months after that he invaded Poland. Britain and France then declared war.

What France and Britain should have done in the Munich crisis still is controversial.

In his history of the period, Winston Churchill speaks of the "tragedy of Munich" and says: "For the French government to leave her faithful ally, Czechoslovakia, to her fate was a melancholy lapse from which flowed terrible consequences. The British government not only acquiesced but encouraged the French government in a fatal course."

Had the French honored their pledge to fight for Czechoslovakia, many people believe, Britain and the Soviet Union would have followed suit. The Czechs had a considerable army.

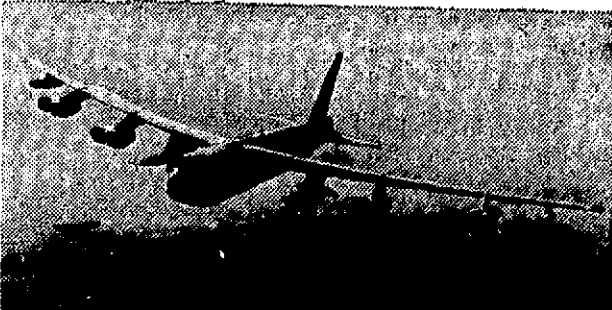

Inside Nazi Germany a conspiracy of generals, already organized, might then have toppled

AMERICA'S ATOMIC ARSENAL

The atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945 was equal to about 20,000 tons of TNT. Today the United States could deliver over three million times that much destructive power with just its strategic bombers and missiles (shown in photographs). In addition, thousands more warheads are available for field use. In all, it is estimated the U.S. has an arsenal of 33,000 nuclear warheads. Most of them—about 25,000—are tactical, designed for use in small, mobile rockets or atomic cannon with explosive potentials of one kiloton or less (1 kiloton equals 1,000 tons of TNT; one megaton equals 1 million tons).

The victory clinched a place for the United States in the interzone final against India. It was the third U.S. victory in the best-of-5 semifinal series.

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston faced the prospects today of a wet and windy doubles match that could give the United States victory over Britain in the interzone Davis Cup tennis final.

The American pair played Mike Sangster and Bobby Wilson of Britain with the U.S. team leading 2-0 after the opening singles Thursday and needing only one more victory to clinch the best-of-five series.

Weather men forecast high wind and rain, making the red shale court of the West Hants Club "slow" and treacherous.

BILLIONS FOR RESEARCH—Against the background of Stanford University's new medical center, Newsmap above spots the 10 leading universities in the nation in terms of government grants for scientific research. The National Science Foundation estimates that the federal government spent $12.6 billion in 1962 for research and development and that 12 per cent of the total, or about $1.5 billion, went to institutions of higher learning. Of this $1.5 billion, about 93 per cent of it went to 100 colleges and universities; 36 per cent went to the 10 institutions shown on map. Federal money tends to go to a limited number of schools because the nature of the work demands large graduate schools and well-equipped laboratories.

Arkansas State Opens Season

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State, which started its football season on the wrong foot last week, meets "Cousin" Florence State in Kays Field Saturday night, hoping to set things right again.

Coach Benny Ellender worked the Arkansas team hard during the past week, trying to iron out the wrinkles that led to a real beating at the hands of Tennessee Tech last week.

Florence State Coach Henry Self will bring a young team to town. He has only one senior in the backfield and four in the line to help sophomores man his flip-flop offense.

Big College Teams to Mix It Up

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first of the really big ones for the nation's ranking college football teams looms Saturday in the Oklahoma-Southern California clash, a game that could have a major bearing on the 1963 national championship.

The Trojans are defending national champions, currently hold the No. 1 spot in the country and have a 12-game winning string going. But in Oklahoma they face a rebounding band of Sooners intent on reclaiming the lost supremacy of a decade ago. They're ranked third.

The game in Los Angeles is scheduled for national television, CBS-TV, 3:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Neither Coach John McKay of Southern California nor Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma was particularly pleased with last week's opening victories. Southern Cal had to work hard for a 14-0 decision over Colorado.

Oklahoma opened with a 31-14 triumph over Clemson, but trailed 14-7 at the half and the Sooners were treated to a rare tongue-lashing by Wilkinson at intermission.

Fourth-ranked Texas and seventh-ranked Northwestern, each 1-0, open conference play at home. Texas plays Texas Tech in a night game and Northwestern is host to Indiana. Northwestern beat a good Missouri team 23-12 last week while Texas blanked Tulane 21-0. Texas Tech beat Washington State 16-7 and Indiana has not played.

Sixth-ranked Wisconsin opened with a 41-0 rout of Western Michigan, but Saturday visits South Bend, Ind., to help Notre Dame open its schedule.

Arkansas, No. 8, whipped Oklahoma State 21-0 in its opener, but may find the going tougher against a Missouri team that hopes to rebound from the loss to Northwestern.

Another toughie sends the Pitt Panthers, No. 10, after last week's 20-0 decision over UCLA plays Washington, which held the No. 10 position until losing to Air Force 10-7.

Among the other ranked teams, No. 2 Alabama goes against hapless Tulane at Mobile, Ala., in a night game. No. 5 Navy has William and Mary and No. 9 Georgia Tech is host to Clemson.

Testimony Ends in Car Theft Case

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) —

Testimony ended Thursday in the car theft trial of Sam Anderson and Forrest Cason in U.S. District Court, and the jury was to get the case today.

Anderson, a Hot Springs attorney, testified Thursday that when he bought a 1962 Ford he did not know it had been stolen.

The defendants are charged with receiving and disposing of a stolen car.

Howard Duff, the operator of a service station, testified Thursday that Cason's typewriter, which the government contends was used in making out false papers for the car, was left at his station for one Truman Agre, who picked it up.

The government contended the car was stolen in Ohio, brought to Hot Springs and sold to Anderson and that Anderson knew it had been stolen.

Anderson said he bought the car from one Jack W. Henley for $1,900 because the papers seemed to be in order. Henley has not been located and it has not been ascertained that Henley was his real name.

Upon learning that the car had been stolen, Anderson said, he went to Georgia in a fruitless attempt to locate Henley. The car had been registered in Georgia, Anderson said.

A tax collector in Jefferson, Ga., testified earlier that Henley had registered three cars in Georgia including the one Anderson purchased.

Six other men pleaded guilty to charges growing out of the case and two men were tried and convicted. Anderson is charged on one count. Cason was convicted on other charges and sentenced to five years in prison.

got the "kiss of death" from Genovese, he was promptly set up to be killed in a rigged prison fight.

He said he spotted the plot, avoided being trapped and then later killed a fellow inmate of the prison with an iron pipe. It turned out, he related, that he had been wrong about the identity of the man he thought was a Genovese mobster out to kill him.

In the first hours of what may be two or three days of testimony, Valachi never got into any detail about the crime syndicate's operations. Most of his testimony dealt with the incidents in the prison.

It was the attempts on his life, Valachi says, which led him to decide to tell his story to federal authorities.

In response to questions from Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., Valachi did say the rackets were very lucrative.

He said it would "break the adding machine" to try to calculate the vast sums Genovese has gathered over them.

Valachi said his own take had run to $150,000 in a little more than a year during World War II.

His normal income was supplemented by selling ration stamps, he explained.

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's Black Friday for the underworld today as vengeful mobster Joseph Valachi takes the congressional witness stand against his former bosses in a nationwide crime syndicate.

The stocky hoodlum is at once defying the underworld credo of silence in the presence of the law, and trying to demolish the syndicate's hierarchy with his testimony.

Continuous live coverage of his testimony is being aired by Mutual and ABC radio networks.

Valachi, 60, has identified himself as a member of the "secret criminal society known to its members as La Cosa Nostra." Its powerful leaders, he says, have marked him for death as a stool pigeon. The police say there is an underworld price of $100,000 on Valachi's head.

Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate Investigations subcommittee told a news conference he had no doubt the elaborate guard of U.S. marshals provided for Valachi was adequate.

Valachi testified Thursday before a closed session of the subcommittee. He emerged smiling widely, but ignored questions fired at him by newsmen as he was hustled back to jail.

He already is under life sentence as a murderer, with two other sentences for narcotics law violations.

McClellan said the mobster's first day of public testimony would deal largely with Valachi's evolution from a youthful, petty crook and strongarm man to full-fledged membership as a "soldier" in La Cosa Nostra's New York City ranks, and with organized crime as he saw it there.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., explained the subcommittee's decision to keep secret some of Valachi's testimony Thursday. He said the details could draw gangland's wrath on a number of persons who have been helpful or even friendly to Valachi since he decided to tell his story to the police.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turncoat gangster Joseph Valachi testified today that Vito Genovese, his former boss in a New York crime syndicate, commands an underworld army of 400 to 500 "soldiers" sworn to a life of lawlessness.

Valachi, a convicted murderer and narcotics racketeer, was before the Senate Investigations subcommittee as a star witness in its massive new probe of organized crime.

A heavy guard of plainclothes U.S. marshals was in the room to make sure nothing happens to Valachi. The underworld reportedly has marked him for death as a stool pigeon and put a $100,000 price on his head.

Genovese is under prison sentence now as a narcotics racketeer, but nevertheless reportedly still runs the mob.

Valachi, a neat figure in a dark gray suit, appeared to be tense as he started his testimony. But the tension seemed to drain away as the 60-year-old hoodlum launched into his story under questioning by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., then by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D.

He said he was a member of the syndicate's ruling power, the secret criminal society known to its members as La Cosa Nostra, and specifically a member of a unit of the syndicate in New York City headed by Genovese.

He said each unit is ruled by a boss, underboss, and lieutenant, with the rank-and-file members known as soldiers.

Asked about the size of Genovese's underworld army of soldiers, Valachi replied: "Vito Genovese has 450 — in and around that. It could be 500."

"That's the family I belonged to," Valachi added.

He said La Cosa Nostra used to be run

Razorbacks Favored by a Touchdown

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Eighth-ranked Arkansas is a one-touchdown favorite over the fired-up Missouri Tigers in their Saturday night football game that is expected to hinge on the play of two stout defenses.

Both teams have flashy — but young — backfields. Coaches Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Dan Devine of Missouri hope power and experience up front will give them the solidarity needed for victory.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. The intersectional battle in 41,000-seat War Memorial Stadium at Little Rock has been sold out for a month.

Arkansas pins its offensive hopes on the passing of junior quarterback Billy Gray, who hit on six of 10 passes for 116 yards against Oklahoma State, and the running of tough sophomore halfback Jim Lindsey.

Missouri sends sophomore quarterback Gary Lane, who impressed in the Tigers' 23-12 loss to Northwestern last week, to the passing line. Backing him up are fleet sophomore halfback Monroe Phelps, who scored twice last week, and Gus Otto, an experienced 218-pound fullback from St. Louis.

Despite the proximity of the schools, they have met only twice on the football field. Missouri won 11-0 in Fayetteville in 1906 and Arkansas won 7-6 at St. Louis in 1944. This game is billed as a rivalry without a background.

For one thing, Missouri will be out to show Broyles how far it has come since he left the Tiger head coaching job in 1958 to take over at Arkansas.

The Razorbacks will be missing two of their strongest linemen — guard Mike Hales who is out for the season with a knee injury and guard Tommy Brasher, who went out of last week's game with a knee ache.

But there's still plenty of beef in tackles Wes Bryant and Dave Adams, linebacker Ronnie Cavness and standout defensive end Jim Gierzle.

Arkansas beat Oklahoma State 21-0 last week but fumbled four times and lost 75 yards on penalties. Broyles told his wards they would have to improve for Missouri, which looked good against solid Northwestern.

Devine's forward wall is studded with heavy, experienced men, including center Gene Oliver, guards Ralph Kubinski and Ron Lurie and tackles Bobby Brown and Dave Gill.

The Missouri defense will key for Gray's roll-out option plays, while Arkansas will have to set its secondary for Lane's drop-back passing attack.

Sandy Koufax is working on a book. If it meets with success, it will gross about $13,000 and probably be titled "The Year the Yankees Struck Out in the Series."

The ace left-hander of the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers, scheduled to pitch the World Series opener next Wednesday, said Thursday he has started taking notes on the American League champion New York Yankees.

"I have faced every one of them at least four or five times during spring training," said Koufax, "but I need a completely accurate line on them before we play that first game."

While Koufax was concentrating on his book, the Dodgers continued to tune-up, with Frank Howard hitting a three-run eighth-inning homer for a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets in only one of four games scheduled Thursday.

In the other NL games, Billy O'Dell pitched a three-hitter and Willie McCovey regained the league home run lead with No. 44 in San Francisco's 10-0 walloping of Philadelphia.

Cleveland figures to win its third straight but the other two unbeaten teams in the National Football League, St. Louis and Chicago, may be in trouble Sunday in the third week of the season.

The only two undefeated teams in the American Football League, San Diego and Kansas City, meet Sunday at San Diego in a game that could have an important bearing on the Western Division race.

Two Saturday night games are on the schedule in the AFL—Oakland at New York and Houston at Buffalo. All the other pro games in both leagues will be played Sunday.

Here's the way it looks this week, all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

NFL
Green Bay 17, Baltimore 10—Coming off their powerful showing against the Lions, Green Bay has to make a solid choice.

Chicago 14, Detroit 10—The Bears are in the groove with Bill Wade hitting Mike Ditka and Ron Bull consistently. The Lions' offense still is sputtering.

Cleveland 31, Los Angeles 7—Jimmy Brown never was hotter. The Rams can't stop Jimmy and are vulnerable to Frank Ryan's passes to Gary Collins.

Dallas 24, Washington 21—The Cowboys are due to win one with Don Perkins back in stride.

Minnesota 21, San Francisco 17—The Vikings beat the 49ers in the opener 24-20. No reason to expect any change.

St. Louis 21, Pittsburgh 20—Cardinals are underdogs despite road victories over Dallas and Philadelphia. Steelers hit the heights last week in 31-0 romp over Giants.

New York 28, Philadelphia 21—The Giants should bounce back behind Y.A. Tittle as they did in 34-10 exhibition victory.

AFL
Buffalo 21, Houston 14 (Saturday night)—With Cookie Gilchrist back in harness and Jack Kemp throwing to Bill Miller and Elbert Dubenion, the Bills have too much for the Oilers.

New York 20, Oakland 17 (Saturday night)—With Clem Daniel hurting, the Jets can zero in on the Raiders' passers. The Jets could pull it out with another effort like their home opener against the Oilers.

Kansas City 24, San Diego 21—The game of the day in the AFL. Chiefs' running attack should be better but Chargers had two weeks to get ready.

Boston 20, Denver 14—Mickey Slaughter makes his debut as No. 1 boy with the Broncos but the of Philadelphia, and Houston edged Pittsburgh 5-4 in 11 innings. Cleveland whipped Kansas City 4-1 in 10 innings in the only American league game.

Larry Sherry started for the Dodgers but the Mets built a 4-1 lead. Lee Walls hit a homer in the sixth for the Dodgers to close the gap, then Howard hit his decisive shot in the eighth, off Galen Cisco. It gave the victory to the of Philadelphia, and Houston edged Pittsburgh 5-4 in 11 innings. Cleveland whipped Kansas City 4-1 in 10 innings in the only American league game.

NEW YORK (AP) — The home run, a lethal weapon that has carried them to 20 World Series triumphs in 40 years, is likely to bring the New York Yankees another world championship, their seventh in eight October meetings with the Dodgers.

As in four of the previous seven clashes between the two teams, the 1963 World Series should go the limit of seven games. Except for the long ball, a department in which the Yankees clearly excel, there is little to choose between the teams.

The Dodgers, because of the possibility of the appearance of Sandy Koufax in three games, have a slight edge in pitching. The Yankees have a stouter defense but the Dodgers offset much of this advantage by their superior speed. The Yankees also will have whatever advantage comes from experience.

Everything points to a pitchers' series with runs scarce. This should suit the Yankees fine. One single blow has been known to end many a series pitching duel and the Yankees' starting line-up, with the exception of Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek, harbors home run power. The Dodgers, forced to claw and scratch for runs during the regular season, have only two legitimate long-ball hitters: They are Tommy Davis and Frank Howard.

Opening at Yankee Stadium, which would house four in a seven game series, is another plus factor for the Yankees. Ralph Houk's team has a remarkable record at home, winning 58 of 78 so far. In contrast, the Yankees won 46 while losing 35 on the road.

The Dodgers surprisingly have played almost as well on the road as they have at home. Through Thursday's games, they show a 49-28 home record compared with 49-32 away.

The planned pitching alignment by the rival managers also figures to give the Yankees an edge, however slight. Barring 11th-hour

Dodger Rookie Has Muscle Injury

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers awaited today a report on further examinations of a muscle injury suffered by their valuable rookie third baseman, Ken McMullen.

The 21-year-old McMullen came up lame with a pulled hamstring on the left leg after blasting a double in the seventh inning against the New York Mets Thursday night.

McMullen has had similar injuries in the past, which accounts for the club's concern.

Pending developments, it was announced he would be out of action "indefinitely."

DeJohn, Chuvalo Fight Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Heavyweights Mike DeJohn and George Chuvalo meet in a 10-round television fight tonight and Cassius Clay is waiting to take on the winner.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV, starting at 9 p.m., EST.

DeJohn, 31, a former member of the top 10 among heavyweights from Miami Beach, Fla., has a record of 46 victories, 11 losses and one draw, with three straight kayos this year.

Chuvalo, former Canadian heavyweight champion, has a 24-7-1 record. He is 26.

Clay, No. 1 heavyweight contender, plans to sign for a fight against the DeJohn-Chuvalo winner at Convention Center either Nov. 5 or 8.

Fight Results

TOKYO — Jose Medel, 118½, Mexico, stopped Masahiko (Fighting) Harada, 118½, Japan, 6.

LOS ANGELES—Adolph Pruitt, 135, Los Angeles, knocked out Willie Woods, 136, Los Angeles, 2; Raoul Rojas, 130, San Pedro, Calif., knocked out Charlie Robinson, 129½, Los Angeles, 2.

Tigers Host Arkadelphia Saturday

The Yerger Tigers play host to Peake High Bulldogs of Arkadelphia, Saturday night, September 28, at 8 o'clock at Hannum Stadium.

The Tigers have dropped three games, but they are out for vengeance. Arkadelphia has a record two wins and one loss.

The probable starting line-up for the Tigers: OFFENSE: Ends, Archie Frecezell, Arthur Green; Tackles: Claud Mauldin, James Sullivan; Guards: John Epps, James Walton; Centers: James Frecezell, Freddie Huntly; Halfbacks: Donald Johnson, Ezell Powell; Quarterbacks: Ronald Stuart, Lucie Martin.

The public is asked to come out and support the Yerger Tigers Saturday night. Sports Reporter is Clement Williams; The coach is Raymond Nevels; Assistant coach is George Strouger.

Pais' ground game gives Babe Parilli a chance to take a breath between pitches. Boston only club in league that runs more often than it throws.

Thinks Porks Will Blast Missouri

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

The Southwest Conference football campaign hits high tide this weekend with intersectional foes threatening to rock the boat from stem to stern.

Texas and Texas Tech get together at Austin Saturday night in the first conference game. But most of their colleagues will be roaming from the midwest to the southeast against some of the toughest competition they could find.

At least four of them are expected to lose, if the odds mean anything.

Texas A&M goes to Columbus to battle Ohio State and Southern Methodist opens the season against Michigan at Ann Arbor in a couple of mid-western jaunts where the Southwest Conference is expected to be unsuccessful.

Texas Christian will be in Tallahassee, Fla., to meet a Florida State team that was suddenly reached stature in view of a 24-0 victory over Miami with its George Mira.

In the home territory, Rice plays Louisiana State at Houston while Arkansas takes on Missouri at Little Rock. Rice is a narrow underdog to Louisiana State despite the fact that LSU hasn't beaten the Owls since 1959.

Arkansas is the only solid favor-changes, Houk will open with Whitey Ford. Opposing him in what shapes up as a brilliant duel of left-handers will be Koufax.

Another left-handed match-up is expected for the second game, also at Yankee Stadium. This one will pit Al Downing, the Yankees' 22-year-old sensation, against veteran Johnny Podres.

It will be the first series participation by Downing who has won 13 of 17 decisions since his recall in June. Podres, 34-11, owns a 3-1 series record, including an unforgettable 2-0 triumph over the Yankees that brought the Brooklyn Dodgers its first world championship in 1955.

The prediction here is that the series will end Friday, Oct. 11, at Yankee Stadium with Ford beating Koufax 1-0 in the seventh game on a late-inning home run by Elston Howard. It's that close.

Near Riot at Louisiana Game

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—A near-riot erupted Thursday night after the bitterly fought high school game in which Landry defeated Bishop Byrne of Port Arthur, Tex., 2-0.

Angry fans ran out on the playing field after a Port Arthur player was put out of the game for taking a swing at the referee on the last play.

Officials restored order before any serious incidents occurred.

The game was marked by many penalties. Each side used its own football after the Texas school's coach objected to what he called low pressure in the home team's ball.

ite to win an intersectional game for the conference when the Razorbacks meet Missouri at Little Rock, Missouri, was bombed by Northwestern 23-12 last week while Arkansas was plastering Oklahoma State with the best offense in the conference.

While Texas and Texas Tech clash at Austin, with the Longhorns overwhelming favorites to start out successfully in the first defense of their championship, and five teams are battling intersectional foes, Baylor will be at home meeting a neighbor.

Baylor engages University of Houston at Waco, expected to start the season with a victory although Houston beat the Bears 18-0 last season and has the guy who did it — Joe Lopasky — still running wild.

Three out of five last week wasn't very good. Better chance this week because there are more games.

Texas-Texas Tech — Texas but not by a whole lot.

Texas A&M-Ohio State — Took the Aggies last week and they lost to Louisiana State; taking them this week anyway.

Texas Christian-Florida State — The TCU ground attack will grind out a victory.

Missouri-Arkansas — A lusty vote for Arkansas.

Rice-Louisiana State — Rice has more than last year when it tied LSU; LSU has less — so it's Rice by a touchdown.

Southern Methodist-Michigan — The Mustangs look as good as the Wolverines and they'll try harder; a vote for SMU.

Baylor-Houston — A close one but Don Trull will be the difference and Baylor will start out with a victory.

A&M Hangs Defeat on Ark. Tech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With echoes of Arkansas A&M's crushing 17-7 defeat of Arkansas Tech still ringing in Russellville, Arkansas State Teachers starts its quest after a second straight Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference title tonight at Arkadelphia against Ouachita.

Teachers should have no significant trouble with the Baptist Tigers if the Bears don't spend too much time worrying about the cast with which A&M manhandled Tech.

It was easy. The Aggies ran up a 17-7 score before yielding seven points in the final period.

Added to non-conference victories over Livingston (Ala.) State and Millsaps College, the victory left A&M with a 3-0 record, the only perfect slate in the AIC.

Fullback Ronnie Higgins got the Aggies on the scoreboard in the first period with a 40-yard field goal. Then he crashed over from the three yard line to end a 76-yard drive in the second quarter.

Halfback Dale Boutwell's 46-yard sprint on the first play after the Aggies got the ball on a Tech fumble started that drive winging. A&M scored from the 30 on six plays.

The last Aggie touchdown was a gift. Tech quarterback Donald Beebe, fading to pass from his own 20, was knocked loose from the ball. A&M tackle Charles James grabbed it at the two and fell over the goal.

Tech's score came after a short punt gave the Wonder Boys the ball on the A&M 32. Tech got it to the goal in five plays, halfback Jerry Dickinson traveling the last six.

The Teachers-Ouachita game is the only one on tonight's schedule. Henderson visits Ozarks and Southern State is at Harding Saturday night to wind up a full weekend of conference play.

Tonight the Hope Bobcats go against the Smackover Buckaroos in the opening conference game of the season. It could decide AAA rankings this year.

Both teams were rated as tops in pre-season picks, and the only way to the head of the pack is over the other's dead body. And that's exactly what they have in mind. Any blood-thirsty fans will have a field day when the two lines, averaging almost 200 pounds a man, start crashing together. Both teams have numerous all-star players, and there may be a few personal feuds in the making. It will be a great game.

Writers Picking Yankees 2 to 1

NEW YORK (AP)—Sports writers who will be covering the World Series favor the New York Yankees by a 2-1 margin over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Of 85 responding to a poll by The Associated Press, 59 made the American League champion Yankees their choice. The National League champion Dodgers were the choice of 26.

1964 has arrived—at your Plymouth-Valiant Dealer's

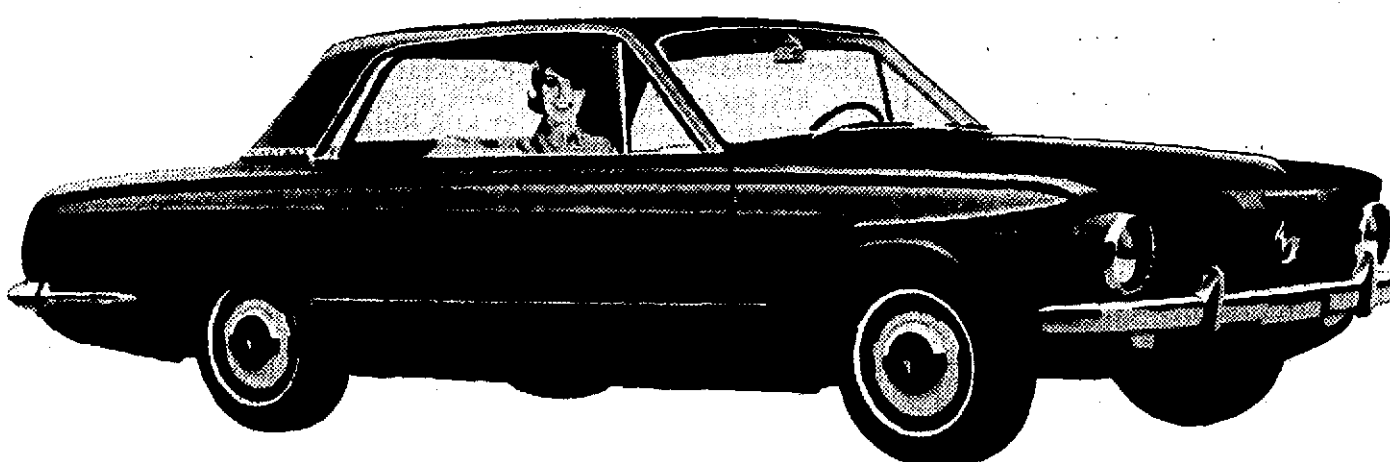

New '64 Plymouth...this good-looking car really gets up and goes and has a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty* to keep it going that way.

This is the brand-new Plymouth for 1964. It is clean, simple, modern in every line. It is quick, alert, vigorous in every move.

And it is backed by a tough 5-year/50,000-mile warranty* on the parts that keep you going...the engine and drive train.

Altogether, if this is the year you picked to buy a new car, you picked a beautiful year to. Get up and go Plymouth!

New '64 Valiant...this smart-looking compact is a hummer in its own right and it's the low-priced compact with a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*.

It would take a lot of compact to top Valiant this year. Take styling. Valiant has more charm all around than most compacts. Take performance. Valiant's standard 101-hp engine is where the word "hummer" comes from. Take quality. Valiant's 5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty* speaks for itself. Take a test drive. Soon. VALIANT 64/STYLE—Best all-around compact

HERE'S HOW THE 5/50 WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation warrants for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business, the engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings of its 1964 automobiles, provided the owner has the engine oil changed every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, the oil filter replaced every second oil change and the carburetor air filter cleaned every 6 months and replaced every 2 years, and every 6 months furnishes to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service, and requests the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the car's then current mileage.

Urging and Telling Are Not Same

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a big difference between urging President Kennedy to keep expenses down and telling him, he has to if he wants a tax cut. Some Republicans ignored it, two in particular.

Urging a president to economize leaves him free to ask for higher spending if he thinks it necessary for the nation's welfare. For Congress to put a limit on how much he can ask, paralyzes him no matter what the national need.

For Congress to impose such a limit is a sophisticated form of back-passing. Congress, not the President, holds the purse strings. He can only spend what Congress votes him. Congress has the ultimate responsibility for economy.

Away back last spring two Republicans, Reps. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin and Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, were complaining about Kennedy's tax-cut proposal. They wanted spending cut.

Both are members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles taxes.

Byrnes and Curtis got more uneasy and more specific as the months passed and it seemed likely that their committee, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 15 to 10, was going to approve a cut.

Kennedy said he wanted the cut to stimulate the economy by giving individuals and businesses more money to spend, even if it meant putting the country deeper in the red for a while by reducing revenue from taxes.

The committee Democrats went along with Kennedy but on Sept. 10, when they approved the cut, they urged him to declare he would go along with the idea that "all reasonable means" should be used "to restrain government spending."

Kennedy agreed, more than once. It didn't tie his hands behind his back. It allowed him room, if he thought necessary, to require it, to ask for increased spending.

And in his radio-television broadcast Sept. 18 he promised federal spending would be limited to "only those activities which

International Liquidity Believed Near

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're still having trouble telling the balance of trade from the balance of payments, brace yourself. You may soon be wondering what on earth is "international liquidity."

Some of the international bankers who will meet in Washington next week already are saying that international liquidity, sooner than we think, may become a concern at the level of jobs and profits.

International liquidity is the monetary or credit resources that oil the trade among nations. It is determined by the amount of reserves of gold and foreign exchange held by various countries, plus their easy access to credit.

The United States has provided, in large part, this fiscal oil for trade since World War II. Huge totals of dollar loans and grants and, of late, big stacks of the U.S. gold board have furnished the liquidity that the world has needed.

Now the United States is getting pretty worried about its role. The reason: The liquidity now largely is in the form of dollars held by foreigners—the surplus of all the outgoing dollars over the incoming ones earned by our exports, investments and various services.

About $7 billion of these surplus dollars have been turned in for U.S. gold. Now and then the United States has to squirm a little under the eyes of those wondering about the dollar's reputation and the chances of maintaining its stated value.

So today the United States is urging that some of the needed liquidity for international trade (which all admit is a necessity) be provided by others. At the same time, some of the bankers gathering in Washington next week for the meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund will be warning that even today's high level of liquidity may not be enough to handle the flow of world trade that present goals of prosperity will require.

Without this flow, many American corporations would feel a profit pinch, and many workers would either lose their jobs or find hope for new ones had failed to materialize.

The United States first scoffed at these warnings, but in recent days has suggested that the international bankers start a study of future needs and ways to meet them.

Prisoners Give Blood, Earn Money

By JOHN R. STARR

CUMMINGS PRISON FARM. Ark. (AP)—An unusual program under which convicts will provide themselves with spending money by donating blood for research will be initiated here soon.

Prison Supt. Dan Stephens said construction of a building to house a blood plasma donation center is in the finishing stages and the program should be launched within two or three weeks.

"We expect it to provide about $250,000 a year for convict welfare," Stephens said. "And the money will enable us to meet one of our most pressing needs."

The need is for funds to provide clothing and a token amount of spending money for each convict when he is released from prison.

That's a prison need. The money also will be used to satisfy the convict's need for spending money during his term.

"Many of our men don't get a cent from outside the whole time they are here," Stephens said. "Since we don't pay them for the work they do, many of them never have any money."

Stephens said the convicts greeted the blood plasma program enthusiastically.

"It was put on a volunteer basis," he said, "but every man volunteered. Some, of course, won't be able to qualify, but I imagine 1,200 to 1,400 of our 1,700 men will participate."

Stephens decided to try the plasma program when he heard it had been employed successfully at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary at McAlester and the Alabama State Prison at Kilby.

"I went to McAlester to see how it worked," he said. "They are happy with it over there."

Stephens got approval for his idea from the state Board of Pardons and Paroles, which supervises the prison system, then broached the idea to the convicts. He called in two leaders from each of Cummings' eight barracks and explained the deal to them.

The Stough-Wisdom Research Co., of McAlester has agreed to pay $5 a pint for plasma. Of the $5, Stephens will withhold $1 for the prison welfare fund and another 50 cents for the "gate fund" until each convict has a minimum of $10 in this fund. The "gate fund" is money accumulated and given to the convict on his release.

The convict may do as he pleases with the remaining $3.50 for each pint of plasma he donates. After he has $10 in the "gate fund," he will control $4 for each pint of blood.

And, under the new process by which the plasma will be taken, each convict can give a pint of plasma a week.

The leaders took details of the plan back to the barracks and the prisoners were eager to try the program, Stephens said. Stough-Wisdom provided a pre-fabricated building and the convicts erected it with voluntary labor.

In the plasma taking process whole blood is taken from the donor. Plasma and blood corpuscles are separated in a centrifuge, then the corpuscles are returned to the donor. The entire process takes 25 minutes and the man is ready to work again immediately.

In regular blood donations whole blood is given and the patient is usually weak for several hours. Donations usually are permitted only once every six weeks.

"But there's no danger in once-a-week donations under this process," Stephens said. "In Oklahoma they've taken plasma from one man as many as three times a week without ill effects."

The money which goes into the welfare fund, about $50,000 a year, Stephens estimated, will be used to buy release clothing and to provide spending money for all convicts, even those who are not donating plasma.

Besides the $10 Stephens will require that each man place in the "gate fund," convicts may make voluntary contributions of any sum they wish. A man with several years to serve could accumulate a tidy sum to carry outside with him.

For the present, Stephens said, the plasma program will be operated only at Cummings, although the 327 prisoners at Tucker Farm, the other unit in the Arkansas prison system, would like to have it.

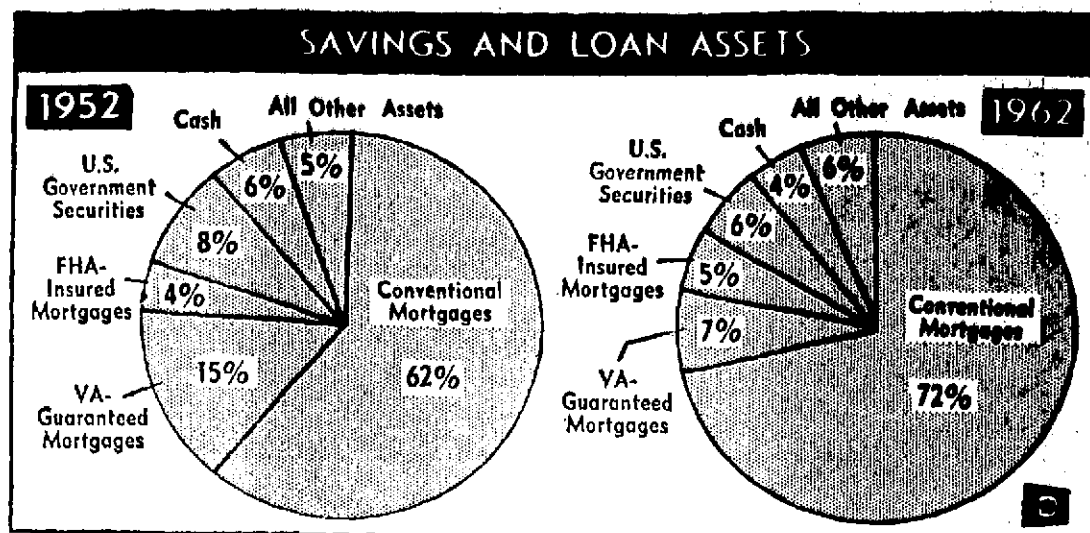

"We think this program will do a great deal for the morale of the prisoners," Stephens said. "They will have spending money, and that's important. We'll be able to provide them with decent clothing when they leave and that's important, too."

And the prison can dispense with the custom of requiring a parolee who has no money to work an additional 10 days to earn his fare to his home.

EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES—Since World War II, savings and loan institutions have grown to the point where they now hold the savings of more than 35 million Americans—and they're looking for new places to invest this money. They are restricted by law to home mortgage and home improvement loans. The 6,277 associations in the 50 states account for 46 per cent of all home mortgage loans. This is three times the number made by commercial banks. Charts above, based on data from the Federal Home Loan Bank, shows the assets of savings and loan associations in 1952 and 1962. A bill now before Congress would allow them to enter new lending fields, such as buying state and municipal securities and financing appliance purchases and college educations.

The NIGHT, The WOMAN

THE STORY: Blake Carden has caught his brother in a lie, but instead of explaining, Todd refuses to tell why he needs money so badly.

XI

Pack in his room, Blake was biting his time, still with the feeling that Todd was also waiting under pressure. Now the phone was ringing in the living room.

Todd answered the call. He spoke in a low, guarded tone.

When the conversation ended, Todd was quiet for a minute. Then, seeming to move cautiously, he went out the rear door. Blake expected to hear the noises of his car starting, but Todd simply vanished from Blake's hearing.

Quietly feeling his way, Blake went into the separate living room of the west wing. Ruth was not there. The door connecting with the bedroom was closed; evidently she had turned in.

Blake let himself out of the house. Todd was not in sight. Shifting across the lawn, Blake stopped again under the umbrella of a royal pinciana growing near the curb. From this position he had an open view northward. Overhead the clear cover was under water. The tree was unmovable in a gravel-digging operation. Blake said he would have the pit drained to expose the entire tree.

thickening under the moon, but a suffused shine penetrated it, enough so that he could make out the ghostly figure of Todd walking along the drive.

At the first intersection Todd turned right and passed from view. Blake knew then where he was going. There at the eastern dead end of the cross street was a small community pier. Todd jointly owned a cabot with Rex Thorp, who lived in the house on the corner. The thorps had gone on a vacation trip to the mountains of North Carolina. For the time being the cabot, if Todd wanted to use it, was all his.

Blake walked quietly along the drive and when he had passed the Thorp home he saw the gleam of a flashlight. The cabot was there in its slip and Todd was aboard, unfurling the sail.

Blake's own boat was a runabout kept in the anchorage of the yacht club. Todd, as a small boy, had expertly sailed a pram and he still disdained power. The cabot had a fiber-glass hull and a dacton sail. Blake couldn't go after him without clumping up noise.

He turned back walking quickly now. He opened the trunk of his car and fished about in the dark until he found his binoculars. He slipped them out of their pink case, looped the strap around his neck, then went back, gular tip of sail, motionless now, was visible in the shine of the cabin lights. Todd was making fast alongside.

Blake saw the sail doosed. Next Todd himself appeared, climbing to the rail. He swung his legs over, stepped into the light fanning from the companionway and disappeared. He was entering the cabin.

About to give it up, Blake suddenly saw Val on deck. She had evidently left the cabin during the few minutes while he was not watching. She seemed to be straightening from a stooping position. Her back turned to Blake, she lurched sideward, as if a blow had knocked her off balance. Then Todd was there with her, looming up out of nowhere, throwing his arms around her, clenching her close.

Held frozen, Blake saw Val twisting her body in a frantic effort to wrench away from Todd. She was small against his superior strength, but she managed to pull one arm free. With her closed fist she pounded at him—his shoulders, his jaw, his eyes. Her tattoo of blows carried force, a blinding force that sent Todd staggering backward. Then both of them went down and out of sight, dropping to the deck behind the superstructure.

Blake kept the binoculars trained breathing slowly, holding himself tightly still, ignoring the growing weight of his lifted arms. The next minutes were empty and endless. Neither Val nor Todd reappeared. Nothing on Valec moved now—nothing that Blake could see.

northward along the drive.

He wasn't surprised to find that Todd had already put out. The cabot was making fast headway, southwestward, sailing free with a brisk wind aft. Although no other craft was about or likely to be, he was violating the Pilot Rules by running without lights. He was heading directly toward Valec.

Valec lay on anchor with her port bow toward Blake. The superstructure, bursting with brightness, partially blocked his off the afterdeck. As much as he could see of her was clear. Val Hayward was not in sight.

TALKINGEST SATELLITE—Syncom II, the first successful "synchronous satellite," has accumulated more message time than all other communications satellites combined. Since its launching on July 26, it has averaged more than 15 hours a day of receiving and transmitting signals. Syncom II is called synchronous because its speed in orbit 22,300 miles high is just enough to keep it above one point on the equator (see News-Graphic above). It actually wanders in a figure-eight pattern above the same area of Brazil and the Atlantic Ocean. Small gas jets, which have enough fuel for two years, are periodically fired to maintain and correct Syncom's position.

TV's Show Blast Soon to Be Over

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual fall television explosion will soon be over and the new and old shows established in their evening networks spots. The next loud noise will be the complaints that it is not fair to judge a series, anywhere from 13 to 36 programs, on the basis of one show.

The pleas will come from parties whose initial offerings received harsh treatment from reviewers. Such a cry has never once passed the smiling lips of anyone connected with a show that drew rave notices.

It probably is a bit unfair to judge on the basis of one program. But there is impressive evidence to indicate the public does just that in picking its pet shows.

By the end of next week, all network programs will be settled in their time periods. By the middle of October, most "heavy viewers" will have decided which programs they will follow. The report by a national rating service which estimates audience sizes will be issued a couple of weeks later.

Evidence indicates it takes about three weeks of sampling the new schedules for the audience to make choices. And the ratings indicate the public usually sticks by its early selections.

Four new programs will make their debuts over the weekend and a dozen established programs will resume new shows.

"The Phil Silvers Show" joins CBS' Saturday night lineup (8:30-9) following the return of the Jackie Gleason Show, a change that pushes "The Defenders" back a half hour.

Ray Walston's new comedy, a fantasy called "My Favorite Martian" begins Sunday evening (7:30-8) on CBS. At 9 Judy Garland and company start their weekly variety hour on the network.
